Mayor Tautznik's Message: On behalf of the people of Easthampton, welcome to the EasthamptonWeb it is our pleasure to serve you. Easthampton is located in the fertile Connecticut River valley of western Massachusetts and is rich in the flavor of an industrial New England village. Having had the foresight to harness water power from the vast Mt. Tom watershed in the mid 1800's, Easthampton grew from a rural farming village to a vibrant industrial community. Today our community continues to support a diverse mixture of industrial commercial and residential growth with an increasing effort to provide leadership and support for new economic initiatives. We are reinvesting in our traditional downtown area, planning for mixed use in our traditional mill district and expanding our efforts to attract new business and investors. The beautiful Nashawannuck Pond, located in the heart of downtown and along scenic Nonotuck

Park, is the gem of a series of water bodies that attract many visitors to Easthampton. In the coming months we will be implementing a series of initiatives designed to enhance the possibilities for increased access to this natural attraction.

2000 Annual Report of the Mayor

January 29, 2001

It has been just over four years since the citizens instituted a strong Mayoral form of government in Easthampton. In this short time we have validated the effectiveness of their decision and have proven the capacity of our community to work in mutual cooperation toward common goals and objectives. The dawning of a new century finds us involved in both the revitalization of the best of what we have become and eager to explore and execute the possibilities of what our city can be in the future.

The progress and success of local government can be measured in many ways. Some view the improvement of our schools and the protection of our natural resources as significant indicators of success. Others may believe that better business opportunities and greater private sector investments are the yardsticks by which we should measure progress. In addition, better public cooperation, grant-making skill, increased financial strength, consistent capacity for capital investment and improved delivery of services to our citizens are often cited as additional signs of the progressive and successful governance we have established. As we mark the year passed we are proud of the performance of our city and her citizens in all of these areas.

Cooperation is a hallmark in Easthampton and at Easthampton High School the vision of "Working Together Toward Excellence" was adopted to signify the uniform commitment of staff, students and administrators to that end. We are a community dedicated to the mission of our public schools, to work in unison with parents, children and the public at large to provide outstanding educational opportunities to all of our students. Over the past year we continued to make significant financial investments in our public schools and have increased operating budgets and allocated additional resources for needed building improvements system-wide. In addition, we have focused new and ongoing planning efforts in the quest to quantify the need for new school construction funding over the next five years. As a member and the facilitator of the School Futures Committee, I am committed to providing an effective forum for discussion of the long-range building needs of our school system. In the coming year this committee will provide its recommendations to the School Committee for the capital expansion and construction of additional classroom space in Easthampton. Whether new construction or significant modernization of existing school properties, our focus has and will continue to be in providing the best we can for the students in Easthampton.

The past year was also one of significant accomplishments in the preservation of the city's natural resources and the protection of the natural heritage passed on to us by our predecessors. With assistance from local conservation organizations and the overwhelming support of citizens throughout the community, Easthampton's effort towards the continued acquisition of key properties along the southern slopes of Mt. Tom continued to meet with success. In addition, our resolve to protect the aquifer that supplies our drinking water was fortified by my belief that the protective zoning density adopted by this community more than ten years ago is an important priority. Armed with the scientific proof that such an action would irrevocably endanger our public water supply, nearly two thousand registered voters petitioned the City Council to force the decision to a voter referendum. While the outcome of this vote is yet to be determined, the action spawned in response to this legislative decision has kindled a call to service and a rebirth of political activism in this sector of the community.

The year 2000 continued on the heels of previous commercial success with more than a dozen new small business starts and several significant expansions of existing business operations in Easthampton. In addition, two very important downtown buildings, the former municipal Fire Station on Union Street and the former Majestic Theater on Cottage Street, were sold to new owners. These two prominent properties have been purchased by successful fine woodworking artists, for use as retail and studio space for their respective trades. The substantial improvements promised by these new owners will provide additional support for our already strong business climate, and their active presence in the downtown heralds the continuation of private sector investment in Easthampton. Additional commercial and industrial expansion within the city provides very attractive opportunities for business growth. The open lines of communication that I maintain within the region continue to play a major role in our capacity to provide reinforcement to the efforts of the local business community.

We also continue to use grant funding to implement other projects that support our common vision of the future. The ongoing work to improve and restore Nashawannuck Pond was bolstered this year with a federal grant to assist in the implementation of needed drainage improvements. Remodeling and improvement of the Town Lodging House has been provided for with the proceeds from an affordable housing grant. My initiative to make additional public transportation service available in the community was aided with the award of a federal transportation grant, to introduce new flexible bus service to the community. In addition, the city strived to win competitive awards from the Community Development and Urban Self Help grant programs. These grants will fund projects and services to benefit local homeowners, young people, senior citizens and persons with disabilities across our entire community. In the past year the city received state and federal grants totaling nearly one and one-half million dollars.

In addition to grant funding, I utilize the implementation and funding of our five-year Capital Improvement Plan to achieve other common objectives. This year we dedicated more than two million dollars in capital spending for improvements such as neighborhood park and playground construction, school and municipal building renovations and other improvements such as new sidewalk construction, drinking water system expansion and increased sanitary sewer capacity. Finally, our long-held goal of consolidating municipal administrative operations was advanced this year with the approval and borrowing authorization for the purchase of an existing office building to house all city and school agency operations in a single location.

The year 2000 was truly one of great progress and success for the citizens of Easthampton. We advanced many initiatives to their logical conclusions and moved many others closer to being accomplished. We worked in cooperation with our peers in local government, and with our representatives in state and federal government agencies, to take full advantage of the opportunities available to us. As we look toward the fiscal challenges of the coming year I am confident that, by working together, we can continue to make Easthampton the best city it can be.

Mayor Michael A. Tautznik

The Mayor's

"Cop Card"

Mayor Tautznik was elected as the very first Mayor of Easthampton on July 16, 1996. He has served the community for more than 22 years and is a lifelong resident of Easthampton. When he's not working in the Town Hall, the Mayor likes to go fishing or work in the yard at his home on Hendrick Street.

Safety Tip:

Help us to make Easthampton an even better place to live. Work hard and stay in school and someday you can be anything you want - even Mayor!

1999 Annual Report of the Town Council:

A lot happened in Nineteen ninety-nine. The City Council started with many appropriations from the Mayor addressing the many capital improvements that were called for in the Capital Improvement Plan. The council is pleased to say that all of the appropriations put forth were approved. They included funds for:

- Sewer inflow prevention design - South Street interceptor,
- Two new trucks for the Highway and Water Departments,
- The schools received funding for roofs on the High School and White Brook Middle School. Also funded was an overhaul of the heating and ventilation system at the High School.
- Preliminary closing costs for the Loudville Road landfill were appropriated.
- Structural repairs to the Town Hall were funded.
- $400,000.00 was added to the city's Stabilization Fund.

Once the appropriations were out of the way, the Finance Subcommittee got busy reviewing the Mayor's FY 2000 budget. This budget was approved in June.

The year was full of interesting happenings for the council. We officially became a "city" during the summer. In November, the biennial city election was held with one new councilor joining us - Alan Zedonis - and one member retiring - Alan Shaler. The city's new Public Safety Building was dedicated in October and is now occupied by the Police and Fire Department personnel.

In closing, the City Council would like to thank the citizens of Easthampton support us and we look forward to three new years of serving you.

Submitted by,

Joy E. Winnie, Vice President to the City Council

Abuse Laws:

You have the right to appear at the District Court, Probate and Family Court, Superior Court or Boston Municipal Court, if you reside within the appropriate jurisdiction, and file a complaint requesting any of the following applicable orders:

1. an order restraining your attacker from abusing you
2. an order directing your attacker to leave your household, building or workplace
3. an order awarding you custody of a minor child
4. an order directing your attacker to pay support for you and any minor child in your custody, if the attacker has a legal obligation of support
5. an order directing your attacker to pay you for losses suffered as a result of abuse, including medical and moving expenses, loss of earnings or support, costs for restoring utilities and replacing locks, reasonable attorney fees and other out-of pocket losses for injuries and property damages sustained.

For an emergency on weekends, holidays, or weeknights, the police will refer you to a justice of the District Court, Probate and Family Court, Superior Court or Boston Municipal Court to seek a criminal complaint for threats, assault and battery, assault with a deadly weapon, assault with intent to kill or other related offenses.

If you are in need of medical treatment, you have the right to request that an officer drive you to the nearest hospital or otherwise assist you in obtaining medical treatment.

If you believe that police protection is needed for your physical safety, you have the right to request that the officer remain at the scene until you and your children can leave or until your safety is otherwise insured. You may also request that the officer assist you in locating and taking you to a safe place, including but not limited to a designated meeting place for a shelter or a family member's or a friend's residence, or a similar place of safety.

You may request a copy of the police incident report at no cost from the police department.

Getting a Restraining Order:

To get a restraining order, you must be in one of the following relationships:

- You are or were married to each other
- You are or were residing in the same household together
- You are related by blood
- You are or were related by marriage
- You have a child in common, regardless of whether you have ever been married or lived together
- You are or have been in a substantial dating relationship - this includes same sex relationships

Where to go:

Only a Judge can issue a restraining order. To get one during regular business hours, go to the Northampton District Court Clerk's office; on weekends, holidays or at nights, come to the Police Station or call us. We will fill out the paperwork and contact the Judge.

The biggest criteria is that you must be placed in imminent fear of bodily harm or have been threatened with bodily harm. You can't get a restraining order just because you want someone out of the house for the night.

Wear a helmet: It's just good sense. Helmets can prevent head injuries, the primary cause of death and debilitating injuries resulting from cycling accidents. They also increase rider visibility. Today's helmets are lightweight and comfortable, stronger and better looking. There are lots of styles from which to choose -- helmets are a fashion statement! A helmet is as much a part of the bicycle as handlebars and tires. Include the gift of a helmet with your gift of a bike!

Everyone should wear a helmet on every ride, no matter how short. Your helmet should fit correctly and meet safety standards set by the Snell Memorial Foundation or the American National Standards Institution.

Return to Bike Safety

Return to Top

Follow the rules of the road: Bicyclists must obey traffic laws that apply to motor vehicles. For example, cyclists should always ride with traffic. Be aware that county and town ordinances vary. For instance, many communities require both front and rear lights on bicycles to improve visibility at night. Contact your local government or bike club for more information.

1. Know your traffic laws
2. Obey traffic lights, signs, speed limits, and lane markings

3. Cycle single file, and on the right side of the road (with traffic)
4. Signal in advance of a turn; use correct hand signals
5. Yield to pedestrians; yield to other vehicles as appropriate
6. Make sure that your bicycle is the proper size and is safely maintained
7. Never wear headphones; they hinder your ability to hear traffic

Be visible: Cyclists must take responsibility for being visible to motorists, pedestrians, and other cyclists. There are numerous ways to enhance your visibility. Wear light colored clothing; fluorescent colors such as bright orange or lime green and yellow are excellent. Try not to ride at night, but, if you must, wear special clothing made from reflective materials. Reflective vests, jackets, wristbands, and triangular patches all increase rider visibility. Remember that wearing bright clothing is not enough. You'll also need at least one light source, such as a bright headlight supplemented by bicycle reflectors specified by the Consumer Product Safety Commission (CPSC). A red tail light will also improve your visibility.

1. Wear brightly colored clothing (fluorescent colors are particularly good)
2. If you must ride at night, wear light colored clothing with reflective triangular patches and wristbands
3. Equip your bicycle with reflectors on the front and rear. The rear reflectors should be red and at least three inches across, pointed straight back to reflect the headlights of vehicles at least 600 feet away.
4. Attach bicycle reflectors to the pedals and wheels. Wheel reflectors can include reflective spokes, cranks, and wheel rims.
5. Use a bright, white headlight, preferably one that makes you visible to drivers 500 feet away.

Return to Bike Safety

Return to Top

Share the road: When you ride, consider yourself the driver of a vehicle and take your legitimate place in the lane. Be confident and assertive; ride in a predictable way. Be considerate of motorists and pedestrians. Remember, pedestrians have the right of way.

1. Make eye contact, smile or wave to communicate with other motorists. Courtesy and predictability are key to safe cycling.
2. Be aware of pedestrians and other vehicles. Learn to anticipate their actions.
3. Ride far enough out from the curb to avoid the unexpected from parked cars.
4. Keep control of your bicycle; be able to look behind you and ride with one hand while signaling.

5. Always check behind you before changing lanes.
6. Be aware of potential hazards like road litter, potholes, gravel, and storm grates.
7. Make sure that books, clothing, and other items are securely attached to the bicycle or carried in a backpack.
8. Use bells or horns to alert pedestrians and vehicles.

Prevent Bicycle Accidents: A Message for Parents:

A bicycle is not a toy. It's a vehicle!

- Each year 1200 bicyclists are fatally injured and over 1/2 million bicycle related injuries are treated in hospital emergency rooms.
- Males are five (5) times more likely to be killed as bicyclists than females. More than half of all bicyclist deaths occur to school age youth (ages 5 - 17)
- Most deaths result from bicycle-motor vehicle collisions, but injuries can happen anywhere - in parks, bike paths, and driveways and often do not involve motor vehicles.
- Head injuries are the most serious injury type and are the most common cause of deaths among bicyclists. The most severe injuries are those to the brain that cause permanent damage.
- Studies have proven that bicycle helmet use can significantly reduce head injuries.

How can you help stop these tragedies?

- Buy your child an approved bike helmet. Purchase one that has a sticker inside certifying the helmet meets standards of the Snell Memorial Foundation and/or the American National Standards Institute (ANSI)
- Let your child help pick out the helmet because it must be worn every time he/she rides. If you're a rider, buy one for yourself, too, and set a good example by wearing it. Also encourage your child's friends to wear helmets.

- Make certain your child's bike is the correct size, safely maintained, and has reflectors. Children under age nine should not ride their bikes in the street. They are not able to identify and adjust to the many dangerous traffic situations.
- Teach your child to always stop and look left-right-left before entering the road. This is a good pedestrian safety practice, too, for crossing the street.
- If a bicyclist rides in the road, the cyclist must obey traffic laws that apply to motor vehicle operators. Instruct your child of the bicycle rules of the road. Driver licensing agencies and highway departments are good sources for booklets that explain bicycle safety rules. Enroll your child in a bike safety education program if one is available in your community.
- Never allow your child to ride at night or while wearing audio headphones. Stress the need to ride alert. Since most drivers do not see riders, bicyclists should ride single file on the right side and signal their intentions to other road users.

Five Common Bicycle and Motor Vehicle Accidents

- Midblock Rideout: This is the most frequent accident type for young riders and occurs soon after the bicyclist enters the road from a driveway, alley, or curb without slowing, stopping or looking for traffic. The bicyclist's sudden entry leaves the motorist too little time to avoid the collision.
 - Bicyclist: Stop and look left-right-left for traffic before entering the road.
- Wrong Way Riding: Motorists do not expect traffic to be approaching from the wrong way. It is the exception to the rule that creates the condition for an accident which is the main reason why it is unlawful to ride facing traffic.
 - Bicyclist: Go with the flow! Ride on the right - with traffic just like cars do.
- Motorist Overtaking Cyclist: This accident occurs because the motorist fails to see and react to the bicyclist until it is too late. This type of accident is more frequent at night, or on narrow rural roads, involves driver inattention, and also involves drunk driving
 - Bicyclist: Avoid riding at night, on narrow roads and where highway speeds are over 35 mph. always use lights and reflectors if you must ride at night.
- Bicyclist Left Turn or Sudden Swerve: The bicyclist swerves to the left without checking traffic, without signaling and moves into the path of an overtaking motor vehicle. The motorist does not have enough time to avoid the collision.
 - Bicyclist: Be predictable. Always ride in a straight line. When preparing to change your lane position, LOOK behind you and yield to overtaking traffic.
- Stop Sign Rideout: This accident occurs when the bicyclist enters an intersection that is controlled by a sign and collides with a vehicle approaching from an uncontrolled lane. The bicyclist fails to stop/slow and look for traffic before entering the intersection. This improper action leaves the motorist too little time to avoid a collision.

- o Bicyclist: When driving your vehicle, obey all traffic signs and signals. At busy intersections, get off your bike and walk across the road as you do when you are a pedestrian.
